

PERKINS DEPLETES FOOD WHEN'S FEUDS

Sees Injury in Stirring Strife Between Producer and Consumer.

REVEALS STORAGE PLOTS

Denies He Seeks to Cheapen Prices and Harm Up- State Farmers.

ST. LOUIS, N. Y., Sept. 14.—George W. Perkins said in an address at the New York State Fair here today that perhaps the most unfortunate thing that has happened in connection with the food question in the State has been the growing feeling of antagonism between the producer of foodstuffs and the consumer. But he did not have a single thing to say about the antagonism directed against himself by Senator Elton B. Brown and others, which resulted in the defeat of his nomination by Gov. Whitman, for president of the State Food Commission.

Mr. Perkins' only allusion to the controversy was: "The statement that has been deliberately circulated up State that I am an enemy of the producer and that my sole interest in this food question is to cheapen the cost to the consumer in New York city, to the detriment of the producer up State, is a deliberate and wanton misrepresentation from beginning to end."

Cooperation is Urged.

"To stir up strife between the producer and the consumer, to deliberately foment trouble between them, is to work to the ultimate injury of both of them," he said. "Only by the closest and best form of cooperation between the two can the best interests of both be promoted."

"I have learned anything at all from the three years of work that I have put in on the food problem, it is that there has been great neglect on the part of the State to look after and promote the interests of the producers of food in the State."

"Almost all the farmers of this State have had the experience of raising foodstuffs only to find that the prices they could get was so low that it hardly paid to harvest the crop, let alone send it to market, while at the same time the retail price for the same article of food in New York city was very high. In countless instances the producers have sent food to New York city only to be told that the price was too low to be worth the trouble of getting it to the city, and the result that they got little or no cash return. In the work that my associates and I have done on this problem no one thing has so impressed me as the utter neglect on the part of the State to render to the producer up State the proper facilities, the aid and protection to which he is entitled in the matter of getting his produce to market as expeditiously and economically as possible."

"I believe this problem of transportation and distribution in New York State cannot be grappled with and solved in order that producer and consumer alike may have a square deal."

Cold Storage Plot Bared.

"In recent years an entirely new device has come into use in connection with our food supply. It is cold storage. We all know that the best prices are obtained by the producer when his foodstuffs are sold to the consumer at the time of production, provided by the State and city."

"I further believe that both the State and the city should have the power at all times to control the food supply, to buy it and hold it. I do not believe that any other weapon would be nearly as effective in controlling the pernicious practices of speculation and hoarding for the State and city to have the power to buy and sell."

"I believe that we must have in our great centers of population, trusts and monopolies, where he wants no such thing, but he did want the State and the city to take a larger hand in supervising and controlling the methods by which food is brought into New York and distributed. He favors the distribution of milk by the city by the establishment of large distribution centers, more cooperation and less destructive competition."

LEUT. STIMSON WOUNDED

St. Louis Physician Injured by Shrapnel in France.

Word came by cable yesterday from France that First Lieut. Philip Moen Stimson, son of the late Dr. H. A. Stimson, pastor of the Manhattan Church, had been wounded in the shoulder by shrapnel. The message came from his sister, Miss Julia Stimson, who is at the head of the St. Louis Hospital unit. She later stated that as soon as the Lieutenant could be moved he would be brought to the St. Louis Hospital.

Dr. Stimson is an authority on surgery and a specialist on contagious diseases. After spending four years at Cornell he was attached to the New York Hospital for two years. He then devoted one year to hospital work in Washington University Hospital in St. Louis.

Shortly after volunteering for service in France Dr. Stimson was made a Lieutenant and sent abroad on special service, later going to the front. He is a Yale man and has many friends not only in New York and St. Louis but in other cities.

THROGS HONOR BRENSINGER

Jersey City Pays Tribute at Commissioner's Funeral.

Jersey City residents of all walks of life joined yesterday in paying a last tribute to Commissioner George P. Brensinger, who was killed in an automobile accident near New Brunswick. The Commissioner was a Major in the New Jersey National Guard and his body was interred with full military honors.

Two battalions of policemen, 200 firemen and all of the city officials marched behind the casket. All of the public schools in the city closed and thousands of civilians marched from the Brensinger home to the cemetery. The Jersey City Home Defense League, of which the late Commissioner was commandant, formed an escort of honor. The Adjutant-General represented the State.

FLIVVER TACKLES WOOLWORTH; LOSES

Two Pedestrians Hurt—Building Not Disturbed.

An ambitious flivver, which had never been stopped by anything from a chicken to a traffic cop, decided yesterday that the Woolworth Building was in its way. As the building showed no disposition whatever to move, the flivver rammed the building.

The casualties: Edward Morduck, 346 West Forty-eighth street, contusions of the abdomen. Paul Fournier, 18 East 106th street, fracture of right leg.

Charles W. Horn, who is attached to the Brooklyn navy yard, was trying to crank his machine in Broadway. The car suddenly started and leaped toward the sidewalk. Horn jumped for the running board to check the car, but it bucked and headed for the Woolworth Building.

Women and children screamed and ran away from the stampeded flivver, and citizens who tried to persuade it not to try conclusions with the big structure failed utterly. When it plunged into the biggest house in the world the machinery was badly damaged, and the two young pedestrians who were in the car were hurt.

SOAPBOX ORATORS WILL GET NO RES

Judge McIntyre Tells Grand Jury Not to Relax in En- forcing Law.

EFFORTS BEARING FRUIT Special Charge Draws Line Between Free Speech and Violence.

Judge McIntyre, in the Court of General Sessions, told the Grand Jury yesterday to continue its efforts to bring to justice soap box orators who persisted in trying to disturb the peace by the denunciation of high officials and the opposition to the enforcement of the military laws that have produced friction in the past.

He pointed out, in a special charge, the distinction between free speech at a lawful gathering and violent utterances that were calculated to disturb the peace. The judge told the jury that efforts already made to curb the soap boxers had borne fruit, and that the glaring offenses which called for their action were now being committed.

"That which is commonly called free speech," said the Judge, "is a much abused term. Any disturbance secured by the Constitution itself, and the privilege of animadverting freely upon public men or public measures is an essential part of the right of free speech. But this is plainly distinguishable, however, from assembling with the intent to commit violence on property or persons, to resist the execution of the law, to disturb public order or for the perpetration of acts inspiring public terror. Such a disturbance is a breach of the public order by force is a breach of the peace."

"Any tumultuous assembly of three or more persons, gathered together for the purpose of denouncing high officials or themselves in such a manner as to disturb the peace and to incite terror or alarm in the minds of rational and fair minded persons is unlawful."

"However, as I said before, the well known efforts made by this Grand Jury to enforce the law as it should have been enforced have had a wholesome effect."

"The disturbances that have occurred in the city and the objectionable things as recorded by the official reporters, words amounting to the denunciation of high officials and advice given to rebel against the statutes of the United States Government, as well as the State Government, are not done, as I am told, any longer."

Resolutions condemning the soap box orators were handed to Federal Judge William B. Sheppard yesterday afternoon by Albert J. Weber, foreman of the Federal Grand Jury. After arraigning the speakers of the Grand Jury, the resolutions were read by the Grand Jury, and the Federal Grand Jury, take up with the officials at Washington the task of rectifying the laws so that summary punishment might be meted out to the type of offenders complained of.

NEEDY TO GET SUBWAY WOOD

Construction Framework Will Be Distributed for Fuel.

Most of the wood that has been used in the framework for the construction of that section of the Broadway subway between Thirty-ninth and Fifty-ninth streets, now nearing completion, is to be given away by the contractor to deserving families for winter fuel.

The Broadway subway suggested the giving away of wood. George Clarke, general manager for the contractor, is having it stored upon the street ready for removal. Needy families may apply to the contractor for a supply of wood. Forty-fourth street and Broadway.

BLACK TOM BLOWUP SUSPECT ARRESTED

Spaniard Seized in Bridgeport With High Explosives.

Special Dispatch to THE SUN.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Sept. 14.—Charged with being a German agent and plotting with a companion, who has escaped the police, to blow up Bridgeport munition plant, a Spaniard, being held without bonds for the Federal authorities. Efforts are being made to learn if he was implicated in the Black Tom Island explosion.

The police found in the room engaged by the suspect at 88 Reilly street three dress suit cases filled with high explosives and a complete laboratory for the manufacture of more. He claims to be a chemist and, like other suspected agents, produced a chemistry correspondence course certificate.

He admits having lived in Berlin until two years ago, when he asserts he left Germany to take care of the South American business interests of a man named Joseph H. Choate, Jr. Choate, M. M. name of which he will not divulge. He states he next went to Mexico and left behind him a brother engaged in the importing business.

Suddenly asked his whereabouts at the time of the Black Tom explosion the prisoner hesitated and then stammered: "I tell you, I never went to work on Black Tom Island until two months after the explosion."

The police have been following him for three weeks in an effort to arrest him. They traced him back and forth from this city to Passaic, N. J., three times in three weeks. He was in three munition plants, including the Union Metallic Cartridge Company, under false names and addresses and stayed in each place long enough to gain a thorough knowledge of its system of guards and the products of war it manufactured. He speaks three languages, Spanish, German and English.
